Safety First

Mine Safety and Health Immediate Notification Rule

On January 11, 2008, Stoneco received some clarification from the Mine Safety and Health Administration (or MSHA) in regards to the "Immediate Notification Rule". Stoneco is required by law to contact MSHA within 15 minutes of an accident occurring, or being made aware that an accident has occurred at any of our operations. Because of this law all accidents must be reported immediately to Stoneco Management even for customers or vendors. This will ensure the safety of every person at our operations and keep us within the requirements set forth by MSHA. If you are at an operation where an accident has occurred please report directly to a loader operator or scale person via radio.

On our company website you will find lots of useful information. We keep a full listing of all of our operations current hours and contact information this can be found on the home page or through our contact section. Detailed product information including gradations for several products is available under the products sections. Under the about us section we have a links page that includes web links to each Road Commission (with a web page) in Michigan as well as the County Road Association. As of last month we added a web video tour of our Ottawa Lake Quarry. All of this and more is available just a few short keyboard strokes away.

Exit Strategy

Leaving a quarry in a large truck can be risky business. In the past several weeks we have become aware of trucks leaving our operations while coasting and not coming to a complete stop. At other quarries we have observed one truck in the right turn lane and the other in the left turn lane simultaneously turning left. Both of these practices are extremely dangerous and could prove fatal, not only to the driver and truck but also the other drivers and their vehicles in oncoming traffic. Please remind trucks at your disposal or in your employ regarding these important exit strategies.

The Right Turn Lane Is For Turning Right

Contractor Pricing

Attached with this newsletter is our updated contractor pricing for all of our locations. This pricing is representative of the ever increasing costs of doing business. The pricing will go into effect Monday February 4th, 2008. Please contact us at any time with questions you may have.
